Summary

Operations and administrative professional with experience supporting healthcare practices, e-commerce businesses, Web3 research teams, immigration services, and digital companies since 2019. I specialize in organizing complex workflows, improving operational efficiency, and supporting leadership teams with research, documentation, and data-driven insights. Throughout my career, I've worked in fast-paced environments where accuracy, structure, and problem-solving are essential. I've managed healthcare administrative operations, conducted market and influencer research in the crypto space, supported international student visa applications, sourced products for Amazon businesses, and handled e-commerce operations including inventory, invoicing, and financial records. In my most recent role as a Medical Administrative and Operations Manager, I helped reorganize practice operations, eliminated administrative backlogs, implemented structured workflow systems, and developed SOPs that improved team coordination, response times, and operational accountability. My work is focused on creating structure where there is chaos—whether that means optimizing internal processes, improving documentation systems, cleaning and enriching data, or supporting executives with research and operational planning.
